

Artist's Statement

Catching only but a glimpse of this new world here and responding to it; that is what we set out to do. A week of whirling around-gathering, looking, seeing delightfully dizzying. Literally at the near end of the week, I thrust myself to the ground next to an ill-fated camel and clutch the earth.

These works only begin to examine the experience.

To understand any give location one has to live and be immersed in the environs for some period of time to truly understand.
